Child Is Badly Mauled By Dog

Diana Marvin, aged 4 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Marvin, Calgary, sustained severe lacerations to her face Sunday afternoon, when a collie dog, belonging to R. Wilson, west of Vulcan, attacked her.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin and Diana and friends with whom they were visiting motored to where the tests for oil are being conducted on the Wilson land. The little girl and Robbie McCartney, a small companion, were left for a few minutes with the dog, which was a pet of the Wilsons. Robbie was playing with him, when for no apparent reason he turned on the little girl, knocking her to the ground, biting and scratching her severely before the screams of both children brought the adults to her rescue.

Diana was rushed to the Vulcan hospital where she was attended by Dr. A. D. Tompkins.

Mr. Wilson is at a loss to know what could have caused his trusted pet to attack the child as he has had him for some time and the dog has never before shown any indications of being cross. He was, however, unaccustomed to children and the thought was expressed that he may have been frightened or hurt in some manner.

Province Will Make Awards To "Master Farm Families"

Alberta's Minister of Agriculture the Honourable D.A. Ure, has announced that nominations for the 1949 Master Farm Family award can now be made. Nomination forms will be available from offices of District Agriculturists, and must be filed by July 1, 1949.

Set up to honor farm families who have achieved notable success in farming, homemaking and citizenship, the Master Farm Family Program will be conducted by the Alberta Department of Agriculture. Nominees for the award must be Canadian citizens, actually operating a farm, and the head of the family must have spent at least ten consecutive years on a farm, including military service if any. Nominations must be signed by three neighbors and accepted by the nominee.

After the closing date for filing of nominations, the nominees will be judged. The Province has been divided into five zones, in each of which a Master Farm Family may be named providing the standard attained is satisfactory. Final selection of the Master Farm Families will be made by a committee of five representing the Department of Agriculture, the University of Alberta, the farmers of the Province and farm women.

The basis of award will be determined by judging such factors as the Home and Farmstead, Operation and Organization of the Farm, Family and Community Life, and Management and Business Methods. Each of these general divisions will be subdivided into several sections for purposes of scoring.

Families who are named as Master Farm Families will receive a cash award of $1,000.00, and a suitable trophy. It is also intended that some form of recognition of a Master Farm Family be placed at the entrance to the farm.

Youngsters Enjoy Birthday Party

A joint birthday party for Allan Deal and Brian Erickson was held April 15th, at the home of Mrs. Earl Erickson.

Eighteen boys and girls ranging in age from 3 to 9 years gathered to observe Allan's fifth and Brian's seventh birthdays.

After a series of picture-taking the children played games on the front lawn under the capable supervision of Evelyn Peterson, Brian's cousin from Calgary.

Each child was presented with a balloon before coming into the house where they gathered around the radio to listen to a request which was sent in for the occasion. Unfortunately it did not come over until Saturday.

The children were then seated at the table decorated with two birthday cakes, and at each plate was an Easter basket filled with Easter eggs with a place card attached.

A very delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Deal and Mrs. Erickson.

The guests were then told to pull the ribbon by their plate, and all were pleasantly surprised to find a gift attached to the other end of the ribbon.

Brian and Allan then opened their birthday presents and each suitably thanked their friend for the presents.

Later the two hostesses served tea to the eight ladies present.

These Modern Apes
When two orang-outangs, flying from Singapore to the U.S.A. arrived at London Airport in a British Overseas Airways Corporation cargo aircraft, one of them was feeling a little "off-colour." As there was a wait of several hours before they went on to America, the B.O.A.C. staff felt that they should give all possible service to this "passenger," so they sent him to a pet store where he would have every care and attention. When the B.O.A.C. cargo officials called for him, they found the orang-outang, completely recovered, reclining in an armchair with a blanket around his shoulders, enjoying a television programme.

Great Wisdom

(From Printed Words)
There are a few great documents which contain so much wisdom that they can bear endless repeating. Here is an example.

I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared. To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our choice between economy and liberty or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our labors and in our amusements. If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of caring for them, they will be happy. The same prudence, which in private life would forbid our paying our money for unexplained projects, forbids it in the disposition of public money. We are endeavoring to reduce the government to the practice of rigid economy to avoid burdening the people and arming the Magistrate with a patronage of money which might be used to corrupt the principles of our government.

The words were written by Thomas Jefferson.

From a Moose Jaw Times' article on "Who is buying Margarine?" the report is that in the country towns farmers are using their cream cheques to buy margarine.

Luck means the hardships and privations you have not hesitated to endure, the long nights you have devoted to work. Luck means the appointments you have never failed to keep, the trains you have never failed to catch.—Max O'Rell.

East, West Meet at U.N. Assembly

Top level diplomats from the entire world are again meeting at United Nations Headquarters, New York, in the second part of the Third General Assembly Session. Here Dean Acheson (left), United States Secretary of State, shakes hands with Andrei A. Gromyko, Deputy Foreign Minister and head of the U.N. Delegation of the USSR.

C. & A. Association Sponsors Buffet Supper For Puck-chasers

Hockey coaches, managers, players and others who lent their aid in promoting hockey in Vulcan last winter were guests of the Vulcan and District Cultural and Athletic Association at a buffet supper in the I.O.O.F. hall last Thursday evening, April 21. There were over fifty in attendance.

Following the delicious supper, prepared by Mrs. Ross Walker, Mrs. F. J. Mensinger and Mrs. J. C. Hanna, short addresses were given by the directors of the Association, the coaches and some players. A showing of three films by J. Majakey of the local National Film Board council was greatly enjoyed. The films included "Health and Recreation," "A Scenic Tour of Banff National Park," and a Canadian travel picture.

The occasion was the first get-together of the members of the Association with the young players of last season's hockey teams and it proved to be a very successful affair.

Bandsmen Wanted For R.C.M.P.

Musicians for all types of military band instruments are required for the R.C.M.P. band. Applicants must be single and between the ages of 18 and 30 and must also meet the requirements of a regular member of the force. Auditions for prospective candidates will be arranged later and further information can be secured from Cpl. Jack Hurst, Vulcan.

In emergency we can help our neighbor. But why wait for an emergency?

Checking on the Palestine Truce

Work on Water-Sewer Project Now Under Way

Actual work on the water and sewer project, long awaited by Vulcan residents, got under way this week, and at the time of writing the laying of the sewer main from the site of the disposal plant to the hospital was practically completed.

The big ditching machine, inching slowly but steadily along, makes short work of the digging of the ditches, which vary from 4 to 12 feet in depth. A crew following behind places the sewer tile in position.

From the hospital, the ditch will next go along the hospital road into the centre of town and to the site of the water well near Scott's blacksmith shop. It is understood that the downtown area will be completed to as great an extent as possible before work commences in the residential areas.

Regular Meeting Good Deeds W.I.

Sixteen members and one visitor were present at the April 14th meeting of the Good Deeds Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Dennison.

Mrs. McMasters presided and roll call was an exchange of plants and seeds.

A donation of $5.00 to the Salvation Army was approved and an excellent report on the district conference at Lethbridge was given by Mrs. Garlick.

A paper on "Citizenship" was given by Mrs. Etta Clark and Mrs. A. Fisher gave a short reading with the new province of Newfoundland as her topic.

A lovely lunch was served by the hostesses assisted by Miss Dennison and Mrs. McMasters. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Matlock.

St. Hilda's school in Calgary will close on June 30 permanently. It was established in 1905, and has had a high standard of excellence as a preparatory school for girls.

$100,000 Hospital Program for Tuberculosis Control Announced

A $100,000 program of assistance to hospitals in Alberta, was part of a ten-year plan for tuberculosis control announced by E. H. Read, retiring president of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, at the tenth annual meeting of the Association, held Sunday at the Paliser Hotel, Calgary.

Mr. Read said that in approximately 200,000 annual admissions to the Alberta hospitals there would probably be between 350 and 450 cases of active tuberculosis as well as a much larger number of cases of inactive disease and a great many other abnormal conditions, most of them totally unsuspected by patient or doctor. Many would be infectious and therefore dangerous to nurses and other patients.

The Association has offered grants of $1,500 to any hospital in Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, and $1,000 to any other hospital in the province that would undertake to X-ray all admissions at a nominal cost to the patient. As there are about 100 hospitals in Alberta that could fulfil such an undertaking, the entire cost to the Association is expected to be $100,000 or more.

Other points in the ten-year plan include stepping-up of the whole case-finding program, expansion of the health education work and still greater assistance to patients and ex-patients in the field of vocational training and rehabilitation.

C. Robert Dickey, general secretary, reported that 528,000 free chest X-rays had now been given to Alberta residents by the Christmas Seal mobile chest X-ray units, in cooperation with the provincial department of health. Active tuberculosis was found in 800 cases examined, there were over 5,000 cases of inactive T.B., and more than 16,000 "other abnormalities" including cancer, heart disease and many others.

Christmas Seal receipts in the 1948-49 campaign were reported as being $136,135, compared with $10,000 in 1938. There were 77,000 individual contributions making up the total, averaging $1.81 per

Reid Hill District Pioneer Passes

An early settler of the Reid Hill district and resident of Vulcan for the past ten years, Mrs. Charlotte Ann Ashmore died at Vulcan on April 20.

Born at Cambridge, England, on Dec. 15, 1868, Mrs. Ashmore came to Canada in 1904, living first at Fernie, B.C. and then moving with her husband in 1907 to Alberta, where they homesteaded in the Reid Hill district. With her husband, Mrs. Ashmore moved into Vulcan in 1939 and had resided here since.

Surviving are her husband, James; four sons, Tim, Fernie, Jim, Nordegg; Ted, Hillcrest, and Ernest, Vulcan; one daughter, Lily, of Vulcan; 16 grand-children and eight great-grandchildren; and one brother Tom Mott, of Detroit, Mich. She was predeceased by 4 sons.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Peter Dawson at the Champion United Church on Saturday, April 23, at two o'clock. Pall bearers were J. E. Carlson, George Rhodes, A. Howerton, A. Howerton, A. J. Miller, Robert Maxwell and Henry Ferguson.

Snodgrass Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements and interment was made in the Champion cemetery.

Prog.-Conservative Women To Meet

A meeting of the Progressive-Conservative Women's Association, a branch of which was formed during the past winter, will be held in the dining room of the Imperial Hotel on Wednesday, May 4, at 3 o'clock p.m.

The meeting will be addressed by Miss Hilda Hesson of Winnipeg and interested ladies of the town and district are invited to attend.

Menace of Fire

(High River Times)

As our neighbors says: "It was long day and we just got to talking." We talked about grass fires round town, and the heavy stands of dried grass which are constituting a dangerous fire hazard in many parts of the town. Then we went on speculating on the prospects of a dry year, and turned back to dry years of the past and the "fire" years we could recall, all with their bearing on the extra precautions which seem to be advisable this year.

Most people apparently agree that 1910 was the driest of all the droughty years within their recollection. They call it "the year of Halley's comet" and almost everyone living in these parts at that time can rake some personal experience linked with that parched and unfruitful year.

But of all the experience nothing remains so vividly in memory as the forest fires in the late summer of 1910. Out of the blistering droughty weeks came the outbreak in the mountains, sweeping the higher foothill country from the Highwood to the Old Man river. All the foothill ranches in that area were in imminent danger and for weeks the towns and plains for a distance of forty miles were bathed in murky yellow glare and sprinkled with ashes.

And it must be remembered that there were no tractors nor mechanized equipment to combat such a catastrophe. It was all horse power and manpower. There was no connecting telephones, no cars, no radios. All that townspeople could learn of the actual danger was by watching the flames that towered or ebbed from night to night on the western horizon. Word might come in from the occasional messenger on horseback, or from a freighter coming in for supplies, but there were no day-by-day reports.

There were urgent demands for help, wired to the federal government, but ranchers could waste no time in waiting. They organized themselves in fire fighting groups to defend their ranch homes. One headquarters was the Bar U ranch, another was the Riley and Thomson Upper ranch.

The late Senator Riley often spoke of that epic battle. All the ranches of the Willow Creek section sent their fighting men to the Riley Upper ranch and Harry Westport was named Captain. They divided up on shifts and areas of special danger, battling the outbreaks which leaped from point to point alarmingly and apparently without cause.

All sorts of primitive but effective measures were used. They set back fires, ploughed fireguards established lookouts to warn of fresh outbreaks. Prior to that time there had never been chipmunks on the east slope ranches, but the chipmunks in hordes poured over the ridges and down the slopes till the ranch yard was full of them all heading east. The deer too, headed east, literally brushing shoulders with men in their path.

The Senator used to recall little incidents in connection with the fight. He told: "I remember by brother-in-law, Fult Thomson, and myself coming in from a long day of riding and threshing out flames, talking of the comfort of stretching out on a bed for a few hours. But when we got to the ranchhouse every foot of space was occupied by played-out cowboys, snatching a few hours before relieving the working shift. You couldn't put a foot down without stepping on a leg or an arm. We tried the stable but it was full of dead-beat horses. So we grabbed a pair of blankets and were thankful to bed down in the corral. Anyway it didn't matter. We never did make use of a bed for three straight weeks. Tension never eased day or night as timber crackled round about and flames leaped for miles to break out in new spots."

"But after three weeks," he recalled "the worst of the fire was turned back to burn itself out in valleys farther west. By that time a great fire-guard had been ploughed clear from the Highwood to the Old Man River. It was quite a picture to see those brawny ploughmen with 6-horse teams going as fast as they could travel. The plough would strike an old stump or hidden rock and the driver would be tossed into the air like a feather. But down he'd come, right the plough, and be going again with scarcely a moment's loss. Long after the worst danger was over, with seared trees and blackened stumps as evidence of what we had narrowly escaped, wagons filled with barrels of water, were kept on steady patrol. The slightest curl of smoke meant glowing embers under the surface, ready to spring with the first gust of wind. It was touch and go to save the ranches, but not one home was lost nor any stock that we had count of."

That was the big fire of 1910, and there have been others since, though scarcely of such magnitude. There are many in this district who were fighters on that battle front of 1910. Little wonder that ranchers are ever vigilant and apprehensive. Fire is a fearsome thing whether it be in town or village, on farm lands, or sweeping across ranch range. The scope of the havoc is unpredictable, and too often it is the result of carelessness. Be careful.

Limit Signs On Highway

Through J. H. Holloway, director of Town Planning in Alberta, the following information is given on regulations respecting signs and billboards on the main highways.

Outside of incorporated cities, towns and villages, no person, corporation or religious or political body may install any device bearing advertising or promotional matter so as to be visible from any numbered highway, unless it is on the advertiser's own premises where he transacts his business. On business premises adjacent to a main highway, signs indicating the nature of the goods for sale or the services offered may be placed, but they must not be more than 100 feet away from the main building in which the business is conducted, nor may they be closer than 27 feet to the limit of the highway right-of-way, nor must they be so large, numerous or dilapidated as to be of unsightly appearance.

Apart from this exception, the only other signs allowed on or adjacent to main highways are directional signs essential for the guidance of the travelling public, for which permits must be obtained before they are erected. In special cases, permits for other types of signs of general benefit or convenience to the public may be granted by the provincial Town and Rural Planning Advisory Board upon application to my office.

The erection of signs in incorporated urban areas or on land adjoining local or municipal roads is governed by such municipal regulations as may be in force. The provincial regulations outlined above refer only to main provincial highways under direct administration of the province.

It is the object of these regulations to preserve the attractive appearance of the Alberta countryside and to reduce accidents by banning roadside features which may unnecessarily distract the attention of motorists from their driving. Alberta has an enviable reputation throughout the North American continent for absence of outdoor advertising along its rural highways and from the standpoint of the tourist trade alone that reputation is well worth maintaining.

Something of a record was achieved recently, when 50,000 lake trout eggs were flown from the fish hatchery in Port Arthur, Ont. to the South American Republic of Colombia, with a loss of only eight. Columbians expressed appreciation to the Canadian authorities responsible for packing and shipping these trout eggs, and thought that the experiment would prove beneficial to their country. The fingerlings were put into Lake Cocha, in southern Colombia.

NOTICE

Public Notice is hereby given that the following By-Law has been introduced in the council of the Municipal District of Vulcan No. 29.

A BY-LAW of the Municipal District of Vulcan No. 29 to authorize the expenditure of a sum not exceeding Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00) for the purpose of erecting a Municipal Office

WHEREAS the Council of the Municipal District of Vulcan No. 29 deems it advisable to build a new Municipal Office in Vulcan, NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Council of the Municipal District of Vulcan No. 29 enacts as follows:

That a sum not exceeding Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00) be expended to cover the cost of erecting an office building upon the District's property, Lots 8, 9 & 10 Block 3 Plan 7000 A.G. Vulcan, Alberta, according to such plans and specifications as the Council may determine.

This By-Law shall come into force upon its final passing. Read a first and second time, and provisionally passed by the Council in regular session this 4th day of April, 1949.

D. D. McQueen, J. E. Carlson
Sec.-Treas. Reeve

AND FURTHER that unless within thirty days from the publication of this notice at least ten percent of the proprietary electors of the Municipal District petition the council to submit such by-law to the vote of the proprietary electors of the Municipal District, the Council will proceed to pass the same.

Date of publication of this notice: April 7, 1949.

D. D. McQueen,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Biography of George Drew, Progressive-Conservative Leader

Soldier, Author, Lawyer and Statesman, Lt. Col. George Alexander Drew, K.C. LL.D., has instilled the Progressive Conservative party with his own fighting spirit and has completely captured the front pages of Canadian newspapers by his brilliant leadership of the opposition in the House of Commons.

Hon. George Drew

Hon. George A. Drew is a man of commanding stature and appearance, vigorous and effective in speech and in public service; A fighting man who returned the Progressive Conservative Party to power in Ontario; a leader whose political record was so impressively good in that well governed province that he became the logical choice of the national convention of the party in Ottawa last autumn.

He was born May 7, 1894, in Guelph, Ontario, the son of the late John H. Drew, K.C. of that city and of his wife, the former Annie I. S. Gibbs. He was the grandson of the late George A. Drew, Q.C., M.P., who was a member of the first Parliament of Confederation and later Senior Judge of the County Court of Wellington Ontario.

He went to school at Guelph, at Upper Canada College and at the University of Toronto, entering the legal profession as did his father and grandfather before him.

When 16 years of age and still a student at Guelph Collegiate Institute, he joined the 16th Battery, Canadian Artillery, and when the first world war broke out he went overseas from the University campus as that battery's youngest officer.

Early in 1916 he was severely wounded in France and invalided home, but instead of being discharged he was named to command the 64th Battery and by the time he was 23 years old he was serving as a Colonel.

After the war, Colonel Drew returned to the University of Toronto and in 1920 was called to the bar, practicing at Guelph.

His interest in politics was already strong and in 1922 he was elected to the city council as an alderman and after three terms was elected Mayor of Guelph at the age of 31 years.

In the meantime his professional ability has been recognized and by 1926 he was Master of the Supreme Court of Ontario. In 1931 he was appointed Chairman of the Ontario Securities Corporation, a post he held until 1934.

Colonel Drew was a keen student of military problems and greatly interested in the welfare of ex-servicemen. His studies and experience made him an outspoken critic of military policy and foreign affairs expressed in several books and many magazine articles. Books he wrote include "Canada's Fighting Airmen," "The Truth About the War," "Salesmen of Death," "Tell Britain," and "The Truth About War Debts."

In 1920 he took command of the 16th Battery in Guelph, retaining this until 1929 when he was offered command of the 11th Field Brigade which won the Shaughnessy Cup for general efficiency in the three years following.

Col. Drew was appointed chairman of the Conservative Campaign Committee for Ontario in 1936. He was elected provincial leader of the party in 1938 and entered the legislature for Simcoe East the following year.

He became premier of Ontario on August 17, 1943, and twice after this date conducted successful general elections in that province. At the general election on June 7, 1948, his government was returned to power with 53 seats out of a total of 90.

On October 2, 1948, the closing day of the three day National Convention of the Progressive Conservative Party, he was chosen as national leader on the first ballot by 837 votes of a total of 1,242.

Col. Drew is past president of the Canadian Artillery Association; Honorary President of the Ontario Artillery Association, a member of the National Council of the League of Nations Society of Canada; a past president of the Toronto branch of the League of Nations Society; formerly vice president of the Dominion Command, Canadian Legion B.E. S.L., and a past president of the Guelph Chamber of Commerce.

He was granted the degree of Doctor of Laws by the University of Toronto; Queen's University and the University of Western Ontario.

His recreations are golf, badminton, squash, fishing and reading.

On Sept. 12, 1936, he married Fiorenza Arneiro Johnston, daughter of Edward Johnson, General Manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York. They have a son, Edward, and a daughter Sandra.

A NEW USE FOR PEAT

The vast peat bogs of Scotland may soon become a great new reservoir of power for industry and transport. Research now indicates that peat may prove an ideal fuel for gas turbine engines. This discovery also brings other important developments in its train. The removal of large quantities of peat for fuel may enable wide stretches of hitherto unproductive ground to be transformed into good farming land.

In 1948, Canadians ate on the average just over 135 pounds of meats of all kinds, about 17 lbs. more a person than the 118 lbs. eaten during the years immediately before the war, but a drop of 11 pounds from the consumption in 1947 of 146 pounds. Less beef, mutton, lamb and canned meat was eaten in 1948 than in 1947, but pork and bacon was a more popular selection.

TREATED SEED GRAINS FOUND FATAL TO HOGS

Every year, usually during the spring, there are reports of losses of hogs which have been fed treated seed grains. Sometimes the deaths are claimed to be the result of feeding purchased grain which might have been treated with a fungicide.

To test the possibly poisonous nature of treated seed oats, an experiment was run last summer by the Division of Animal Husbandry, Veterinary Medicine, of the University of Minnesota.

Growing pigs, ranging in weight from 60 to 99 pounds at the beginning of the test, were fed in concrete floored pens for varying periods of time. As a control, and to be sure that the grain was normal and undamaged, two of the pigs were fed untreated oats. These pigs remained healthy and made an average rate of gain for pigs fed only oats and water.

Plan of Feeding: A portion of the same normal oats was removed from the bin and treated with Ceresan at the rate of ½ ounce per bushel. These treated oats were then self-fed as the only feed to six thrifty pigs. Below are the results:

The only pigs which were able to survive the test were those which received treated oats for just ten days. They seemed to remain in a healthy condition.

Two pigs which ate the treated oats for twenty days survived that period, but died five and nine days respectively, after being put back on normal feeds at the end of the twenty day period. It was planned to feed two pigs treated oats for thirty days, but one of these pigs died after 27 days.

The treated oats were less palatable than normal oats, so the last four pigs ate only enough to make gains ranging from 4 to 9 pounds per head for the first 20 days. After that, they either refused to eat the whole oats or ate very little.

A weak and unsteady gait was the first symptom of sickness shown by the pigs. It was hard for them to get to their feet and they could walk only a few steps. Scouring soon developed, and the pigs often vomited after eating the treated oats. Some of them seemed to get dizzy turning around in circles. A day or two later, they became paralyzed and died.

Mixed Ration Tested: These tests also investigated the possibility of other feeds. Treated oats were included, at the rate of 15 per cent, in a mixture of shelled corn, tankage, soy bean oilmeal, alfalfa meal

Vulcan Hospital, Monday, April 25th. Congratulations.

Mr. L. Lackey, L. Hagg, W. P. Raisbeck and R. McLeod, attended the Royal Canadian Air Force Association, Lethbridge wing, meeting for ex-R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. personnel held in Lethbridge, Thursday evening, April 21st. Another meeting is to be held on May 18th and veterans interested should contact Mr. L. Lackey before that date.

Three pigs were self-fed this well-proportioned mixture for 600 days in dry lot. The average daily gain was 1.63 pounds per pig, and the pigs appeared to be normal in health.

During the 60 days, however, only 3½ bushels of treated oats were eaten by the three pigs. Because so little was consumed, the labour cost of handling a special mixture of feeds was greater than the salvage value of the oats. There was also considerable waste of feeds because the pigs found the mixture unpalatable.

Three similar pigs were fed a mixture of the same feeds which contained 30 per cent treated oats. This feed was so distasteful to the pigs that they rooted much of it out of the feeder.

The gain per pig daily was 1.20 pounds, and they consumed 580 pounds of feed for each 100 lbs. gain. Thus this plan was considered unprofitable because the gains were slow and because the pigs ate approximately 200 pounds of feed more per 100 pounds gain than pigs of this weight should take.

Because the feeding of Ceresan-treated oats proved so unsatisfactory in these tests, it is recommended that any surplus seed grain not be used for feed.

STORING WINTER CLOTHING

Clothing articles to be stored for a season must be packed in perfectly clean condition in order to prevent deterioration of fabric by dirt and perspiration, advises Miss L. Rioux, District Home Economist at St. Paul. It is also a good idea to make any necessary repairs so that the garments will be ready for use when they are unpacked. Washable garments should be dry cleaned before storing.

There are several ways of preventing moth infestation of woolen garments but their efficiency will depend greatly on the cleanliness of the articles before storage and on the airtightness of the container. That implies freedom from moth infestation to begin with, and no further contamination after storage. Wrapping clothes tightly in firm wrapping paper or newspaper and sealing the ends and edges is recommended. Clothes moths will not eat into paper. Be careful, however, that the paper does not get torn. The wrapping must be airtight to be effective.

As an added precaution all closets or storage spaces should be washed and aired and well sprayed with a good D.D.T. solution. This spraying should be done at intervals during the summer if moths are a problem. These D.D.T. solutions do not injure fabrics so can be sprayed onto them, but remember that it is the airtight wrapping that really ensures moth protection.

When storing containers or boxes be sure to label them clearly with a list of their contents so that articles may be found with a minimum of time and effort when needed.

WILL GRASSHOPPERS GET YOUR CROPP?

Farmers in southern Alberta as well as in the Provost and Drumheller areas are exposed to a serious grasshopper outbreak this year. So far the weather has been on the side of the grasshoppers. If this weather continues an early outbreak is expected before the crops get really started. It is here that the danger lies, older hoppers and a young succulent crop can mean a complete loss of the crop. Farmers are warned to prepare themselves for the attack against this pest.

W. Lobay, Supervisor of Crop Protection, Alberta Department of Agriculture, advises that baits will be available at bait mixing stations established at strategic points throughout the infested areas. Newly mixed baits will contain the insecticide, Chlordane, as the active grasshopper killing agent. Chlordane possesses certain advantages over sodium arsenite and sodium fluosilicate used in previous years. It is less toxic to humans and animals and has a good residual effect. Sawdust baits should be spread thinly—about 10 pounds per acre. When properly spread it should be almost impossible to see the bait on the ground. Thin spreading gives better kills than thick spreading. Hoppers start feeding when temperatures are around 65 to 68 F. They do not feed readily when it is cold, very windy, very hot, or cloudy.

Chlordane sprays and dusts will also be made available to farmers. Spray and bait materials can be obtained from municipal, local improvement and special area officers as well as other central points to be selected. Sprays and dusts are particularly effective when applied on succulent growth along roadsides railroad right of ways, canal banks, field margins and grain fields.

Biography of Louis St. Laurent Prime Minister of Canada

Louis Stephen St. Laurent was born in Compton, Quebec, on February 1, 1882, of French-Canadian and Irish-Canadian parents. He was educated at St. Charles College, Sherbrooke, Quebec, and at

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent
Laval University, Quebec City, where he graduated in law. In June, 1914, he was appointed professor of law at Laval.

He has been awarded LL.D.'s by six Universities; Queen's University, 1930; University of Manitoba, 1935; University of Montreal, 1930; Bishop's College, 1943; Dalhousie University, 1947, and the University of Ottawa, 1947. On January 1, 1946 he was made a member of the Imperial Privy Council.

Mr. St. Laurent has served as batonnier of the local Quebec City Bar, batonnier-general of Quebec Province Bar and president of the Canadian Bar Association. He has pleaded many important cases before the Supreme Court of Canada and before the Judicial Committee of the British Privy Council. He served as counsel on the Rowel-Sirois Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations immediately prior to the war.

On December, 10, 1941, Mr. St. Laurent succeeded, late Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe as Minister of Justice and Attorney General for Canada. He was elected to the House of Commons in the Quebec East constituency in a by-election, 1942, and in the general elections in 1945.

On September 4, 1946, Mr. St. Laurent's appointment was announced as Secretary of State for External Affairs. He continued to occupy the Ministry of Justice until December 10, 1946, when he relinquished this post to devote himself entirely to the External Affairs portfolio.

Mr. St. Laurent was deputy Chairman of the Canadian Delegation to the United Nations Conference at San Francisco in 1945, and Chairman of the Canadian Delegation to the First Session of the U.N. General Assembly in London early in 1946.

During Prime Minister's absence in the United Kingdom in 1945 Mr. St. Laurent was Acting Secretary of State for External Affairs, and in the summer of 1946 when Mr. King was away at conferences abroad he served as Acting Prime Minister.

Mr. St. Laurent was Chairman of the Canadian Delegation at the second part of the First Session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York in October 1946, and at the Second Session of the Assembly in September, 1947.

At the national convention of the Liberal Party, summoned by the National Liberal Federation, in August 1948, to select a successor to the retiring Liberal Party Leader, the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Mr. St. Laurent was chosen to succeed Mr. King in that office.

On September 10, 1948, Mr. St. Laurent again became Minister of Justice and Acting Prime Minister while Mr. King was at the Third Session of the General Assembly of the United Nations in Paris. When illness prevented Mr. King from attending the meetings of Commonwealth Prime Ministers, which opened in London on October 11, Mr. St. Laurent replaced him during the latter part of the conversations.

On November 15, 1948, Mr. St. Laurent became Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council.

Mr. St. Laurent is married to the former Jeanne Renault. They have two sons and three daughters.

Air Spraying Has Advantages

Aerial spraying for weed and grasshopper control in this district will be available on a large scale this year for the first time. Mr. Morrison of Morrison and Olsen announces that they have been appointed agents in the district for the Westland Spraying Service Ltd., of High River, Alta.

Farmers can book reservations now without paying a deposit and without any obligation on their part, Mr. Morrison states. The Westland Spraying organization stresses this feature for two reasons. The Company has a large fleet of aircraft; and in order to spot these across the country for their best use, the Company desires some idea in advance of the acreage to be sprayed. At the same time, the Westland company appreciates that while a farmer may want aerial spraying, he is not ready to commit himself until he sees the crop ready for spraying and aircraft on hand to do the job.

Low cost. High speed. Thorough spraying. These three values make aerial spraying the best way to control weeds, grasshoppers and other pests, Mr. Morrison states. Experience has proved this on millions of acres in the United States and Canada, he reports.

The low cost per acre is achieved in several ways. The high speed of aerial spraying makes it possible to spray up to 700 acres per hour thus saving time, labor, and equipment. And there is no damage to the crop through wheel tracks, which alone is enough to pay the cost of aerial spraying, according to Mr. Morrison.

Aerial spraying also can be well done when the land is too wet or when the crop is too tall for other sprayers. And aerial spraying covers ditches, sloughs, brush, etc. as easily and thoroughly as open fields.

Thorough spraying is got by using a light diesel oil as carrier for the chemical. This mixture flows free under pressure through the spray boom, so that the crop is evenly sprayed. The light oil mixtures does not damage the plant, does not dry up, and is not washed off by rain or dew. The oil carries the chemical right into the leaf and gives a fast, sure kill.

The Westland company keeps in touch with each district through its agent until the season is right for spraying. The company then flies in enough aircraft to spray acreage booked.

Farmers supply their own chemicals when their fields are to be sprayed, and each farmer also supplies two men to act as field markers to guide the aircraft. The Westland company does the rest.

Westland Spraying Service Ltd. devotes itself exclusively to aerial spraying in Western Canada and has an impressive capital of experience in flying and management before, during and since the war, Mr. Morrison points out.

Directors of the Company are John R. Morgan, of Winnipeg president and managing director; Mr. Chas. Robson of Oshawa, Ont., vice-president; and Charles Becker K. C., of Edmonton, secretary.

Other officers are H. S. Sheppard, treasurer; Ralph Glass, sales manager, and T. A. Caddick, service manager; all at High River, Alberta, where the Company's office and base for its fleet of aircraft are maintained.

Messrs. Morgan, Robson and Becker each organized and managed flying training schools of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Mr. Caddick has an outstanding record in aircraft maintenance through thirty years. Mr. Sheppard, Mr. Glass and the Company pilots are all veterans of the R.C.A.F. Each pilot has thousands of hours of flying time on aircraft of all types, and has been hand-picked for his record and mature experience.

CANADA LEADING SUPPLIER OF BRUSH FOOD REQUIREMENTS

Canada was Great Britain's principal source of supply in 1948 for wheat, flour, bacon, shell eggs dried eggs, condensed milk and canned salmon. Canadian forests provided most of the sawn hardwood, sawn softwood, planed and dressed softwood and veneers required by the United Kingdom construction industry. Sleepers for British railways, newsprint, aluminum, copper, nickel and ferro-alloys were also supplied in large volume by Canada.

It's been a busy year!...

This week many thousands of Canadians will be reading the story told in Imperial Oil's annual report. It is a story of how, to meet your needs, Imperial last year found more crude oil, produced more crude, transported, refined, distributed and marketed more oil and products than ever before.

To do this we had to spend a lot of money. We sent men ranging over thousands of square miles in the search for new oil fields—and we found new oil. We built new ships... new pipe lines... new refining units... new marketing facilities... and a host of other things. Again last year we spent more money than we earned, but it was an investment in Canada's future as well as our own.

We raised most of the money we needed by borrowing and by selling some of our major investments; the rest was earnings put back into the business after paying dividends.

On the year's business we made a profit of less than a cent a gallon on products sold. This amounted to 4 and 9/10ths cents out of each sales dollar we received.

It was a busy, successful, interesting year. When it began we were sometimes hard pressed to meet all your needs; when it ended supplies were assured. It saw new oil discovered, making Canada less dependent on foreign supplies; new equipment added, helping to serve Canadians better with the products they need.

Bringing you oil is a big job—and a costly one.

If you're interested in facts...

1948 set new records in all phases of Imperial Oil's operations.

If the wells drilled by the company to find and produce oil in Canada during 1948 were placed end to end they would total 163 miles.

Five large tankers were added to the company's fleet; the Leduc pipe line was extended to Edmonton, and plans progressed for a pipe line from Edmonton to Regina; 4,711 tank cars moved more than 150,000 car loads of crude oil and products.

Imperial's eight refineries processed an average of 135,037 barrels per day, a new record.

Sales totalled 1,819,000,000 gallons. On its operations the company earned $16,873,163—a profit of 93/100 of a cent per gallon for each of the 1,819,000,000 gallons sold. From its investments the company earned $5,958,907.
